

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Electronic device having a back-up battery compartment is described. The back-up battery compartment is capable of holding a battery having sufficient power to power the electronic circuitry present in the device. The back-up battery may be 5 connected to the electronic circuitry within the electronic device via an electronic or manual switch.